The following information about the Pacific Environmental Advocacy Center and Attorney Mensher is reprinted from the Center's website.

Dan Mensher is a staff attorney with the Pacific Environmental Advocacy Center (PEAC). PEAC is the nationally-recognized, domestic environmental legal clinic of Lewis & Clark Law School in Portland, Oregon. As an independent organization, PEAC's experienced environmental lawyers collaborate with law school faculty, staff and students to protect our natural resources through pro bono representation, litigation, training and education.

Dan spearheads PEAC's water quality and pollution control work. A graduate of Lewis and Clark Law School (J.D. 2007), the University of Wisconsin-Madison (M.S. 2002), and Wesleyan University (B.A. 1998), Dan is a former law clerk for Hon. Rick Haselton of the Oregon Court of Appeals. When not cleaning up and cooling down waters across the state of Oregon and beyond, Dan drinks copious amounts of coffee to create free time, which he fills with racing his bicycle, cooking, and running.
